Anythink™ Kicks Off Authors Next Door Series

Reading and Café-style Discussion with Author Beth Conover

THORNTON, Colo.—April 12, 2010—On Tuesday, April 27, Anythink Huron Street kicks off the district's new Authors Next Door Series with local environmentalist and author Beth Conover. Conover will discuss How the West Was Warmed, a collection of essays edited by her and just released from Fulcrum Publishing, which creates a clear portrait of the wide range of responses to climate change in the Rocky Mountain West.

Participants of this program will get an opportunity to interact in a café-style discussion with the author and hear her read selections from How the West Was Warmed. Discussions will cover all aspects of climate change and its impact on the West.

Beth Conover has worked for 25 years at the intersection of environmental protection and economic development. As policy advisor to Denver Mayor John Hickenlooper, she was the architect of Greenprint Denver, one of the nation's earliest and largest urban sustainability programs, and helped lay the groundwork for the greening of the 2008 Democratic National Convention.
