Anythink hosts Boyd Norton photography exhibition

Show by preeminent conservation photographer runs June 10-July 6

THORNTON, Colo.—June 9, 2016—Anythink will host a special exhibition of photographs by preeminent conservation photographer Boyd Norton at its Anythink Wright Farms location from June 10–July 6. This exhibition features photos of landscapes and animals from across the world, highlighting endangered animals and ecosystems. Norton will discuss his conservation photography during a reception at Anythink Wright Farms on Monday, June 27, from 5:30–6:30 pm. Light refreshments will be served.

The photos in this exhibition are archival giclée prints. They are artist proofs, hand-printed and limited to five artist proofs per image. Countries and regions represented include Alaska, Kenya, Tanzania, England and Colorado. This exhibition is courtesy of Fulcrum Publishing of Golden, Colo.

“Anythink connects our community with ideas and inspiration, and Boyd Norton’s exhibition helps to bring the world to our visitors right here in Adams County,” says Stacie Ledden, Anythink director of innovations and brand strategy. “These incredible images transport the viewer, and we’re thrilled to make them available at Anythink Wright Farms for our community to enjoy.”

In addition to photography, Norton is also a leading conservation activist and author of 17 books. He is the recipient of the 2015 Ansel Adams Award for lifetime achievement, awarded by the Sierra Club, and founder of Serengeti Watch, a non-profit organization aimed at safeguarding one of the world’s greatest scenic and wildlife treasures.

In addition to hosting guest photography exhibitions, Anythink also helps support the Anythink Wright Farms Photography Club, a group of local photographers who meet monthly to explore photography and practice their skills. In 2015, the Anythink Wright Farms Photography Club hosted their first exhibition, “Capture Nature,” featuring original works by members.
